WineWise Notes:

Jérôme is a fierce proponent of Meunier, which dominates his holdings. And who could refute his belief in the grape's innate quality when confronted with such a masterly wine as this? A blend of 80% 2014 and 20% 2013, dosed at just 2 gm., it again demonstrates the house's remarkable ability to coax finely-textured wines from their grapes, even at this ultra-dry level. It is reminiscent of the single-parcel Meunier wines made by Jérôme's friend Alexandre Chartogne.

Notes from the producer:

As is typical for the Champagne region, our domaine has lots of small, separate plots, including at least 42 vineyards divided between the villages of Mareuil-le-Port, Oeuilly and Troissy. We have a wide variety of exposures, geology and grape varieties. Our vines are planted at many different altitudes and have a wide range of ages. This creates many nuances which express themselves in our different wines. This cuvee reveals the Pinot Meunier character, favorite grape variety in the Marne Valley area and iconic identity of our Vineyard. Jérôme Dehours runs the estate, which was founded by his grandfather in 1930. In 1996, Jérôme Dehours stopped this activity to focus on the vineyard. This marked a complete reset of the company (stock, material, clients,...) with an emphasis on the Terroir identity, together with more respectful and healthy practices (for both the environment and human beings).

WineWise Notes on Dehours & Fils:

No visit was more revelatory than this one, for all sorts of reasons. First of all Jerome Dehours himself, a debonair, fast-talking man of exceptional lucidity and passion. To get a sense of his uniqueness, you can read, the remarkable manifesto he publishes about his enterprise which describes every aspect of his work, down to the brand and engine size of his tractors. He took over the domaine in 1999 and started a conversion to organic viticulture, which is now complete. The domaine consists of 42 parcels, all within close reach of the winery. Dehours was the first producer in Champagne to offer "vins parcellaires" a year, all of which are held back for an above-average period before release to the market. (A superlative late-released 2003 from that most unfashionable vintage was the single most stunning wine tasted on this recent tour). The wines are not filtered, all enjoy a passage through wood, and they are allowed to go through malolactic fermentation naturally in the spring. The yeasts used are indigenous, but Dehours makes their own cocktail of the best. Jerome likes to employ the tailles, so often sold off by other producers, feeling that they impart useful and attractive qualities to the finished wines. Certainly, the prevailing cashmere elegance of his range is testimony to the fastidious care with which he works - a fact recognized by an adulatory press in France and important customers among the big houses who ask him to press their grapes for them. We count ourselves lucky indeed to have this important agency in our portfolio.
